Prophecy:

Hallelujah! Just remember He binds the broken-hearted, He heals a wounded soul.

“Thank You, Lord, Thank You, Lord! Just make some decisions that things are going to be different in your homes, just make some decisions, make a quality decision - we’re not doing that any more, we’re not saying that anymore, we’re not going to act like that to one another anymore. We’re just not going to do it. We’re going to let the love of God dominate.”

Thank You Jesus!

Exhortation after Prophecy:

We’re going to let the love of God dominate. And ask God, “Let the love in my relationships, let the love in my marriage, let the love in whom I have to deal with.” Father; thank You, Lord.

Blessed be your Name!

“It’s just not that difficult, it’s just not that hard. Satan’s tricking me into thinking that it is hard and it’s difficult. It’s not that difficult, it’s not that hard. Don’t listen to the enemy. It is a facade. It’s not real, it’s not real, it’s real. It’s not. Hallelujah. Thank you, Lord. It’s just not!

It’s not what it appears to be. He appears as an angel of light to deceive. No, it’s all mental, it’s a mental struggle, its thoughts, its thoughts. Put them down. Cast those thoughts down.

It’s not that bad. He’s trying to make it, he’s trying to amplify it, but it’s not that bad. Hallelujah! Just a little adjustment that you have to make personally, regardless of what the situation is in what you’re facing.”
