

Fully Known & Fully Loved...

“Would it help you to know”?

I too have....

loved another who no longer loves me,

loved another who never loved me,

been loved by another who's love I could or would not return,

left those I could no longer walk with,

been left by those who no longer wished to walk with me,

been afraid to let go of familiar parts of me for an unknown future,
I did it anyway,

been afraid to let go of familiar places for a future of no guarantees,
I did it anyway,

felt utterly alone even when surrounded by people,

wondered if I have sacrificed, served and loved in vain,
I press on anyway,

All relationships are fraught with complexities and perplexities,
a perceived prize and an unexpected price! except one, Him!

With all humans there can never be complete intimacy, this requires trust and no human can provide that 100%. Only Jesus is worthy to both give and receive this level of trust and therefore intimacy.
(In-to-me-see!)

Fully known and fully loved is only a 2 way street with Him!

He can be known, and I am known, I choose Him and ask Him to choose all others for me!

I have only one sure thing in my hand, one sure thing in my sights and one sure thing in my heart.
...Jesus...

His always to my Forever!
