

Tis the Season...

*You don't want to live a life
Of doing only what you like
You don't want to live that life
That is only the way that seems right
And to a man ends in death
Tis the season not for doing what is likes
But for doing what is needed
Tis the season for doing what is right
Without needing to understand the reason
What you sow to your flesh now
Will be your future harvest
What you sow to your spirit now
Will be your future harvest
Choose wisely your soil, choose wisely your seed
Tis the season to everything there is a reason!*
